

Alex M. Kashin

CEO, the Chairman of the Board of Directors InEnergy Group, Russia

Mr. Kashin is an entrepreneur, a company founder, an expert in electrochemical technologies and alternative energy.

Mr. Kashin has served as CEO of InEnergy Group since 2013. He held a series of senior executive level positions within Aims Group, a Russian IT system integrator, and Social Security Administration Offices across Russia.

He graduated from Orenburg State University where he studied Information Technologies. Mr. Kashin's research area is physical chemistry: stack engineering and material research (proton-exchange membranes, catalysts, including CO-tolerant), redox batteries (electrolyte). His current business interests, among others, include development of educational solutions based on sustainable energy.

He is a member of the Advisory Council for the Western Cape University, South Africa; a member of the Council for Key Priorities in Research and Technology Strategy Development in the Russian Federation, Russian Academy of Science.

